Property sold under the program will be sold by a process in which the City invites those interested in developing the properties to submit proposals for development. The City Council will make the final decision on any proposal. If only one acceptable proposal is submitted, staff may accept the proposal and close the transaction.

All properties sold through the program described in Section 1 shall be sold subject to an affordable housing covenant that limits the use to affordable housing and provides for reversion to City ownership if the property ceases to be used for affordable housing.
